Gains Fame First in 1899.

It was in 1899 that Coburn started out as a jockey of some repute. He was under contract to George C. Bennett, who then owned a great stable of horses. The boy rode eleven winners that year and by all was considered a promising lad. He was a quiet, unassuming youngster and very alert at the post. He finished like a good rider, too, and soon gained enough experience to make him one of the most sought-after riders in the country.

In 1906 he rode with considerable success and brought inome something like 200 winners. The following year success and orought nome something success and orought nome something year he reached the pinnacle of his career he riding 218 winners. He was then the best rider in America without question and was petted by all with whom he came in contact. But at this stage the contaminating influences began to make themselves felt. He deteriorated until three years later he was useless as a rider of race horses.

CYCLISTS TO AID M'DONALD'S WIFE

Riders Give Substantial Evidence of Sympathy to Widow of Comrade.

NEW YORK, December 16.—It was a gloomy crowd of athletes that assembled yesterday in the corridors of the Hotel Bartholdi, after their six-day whirl around the bicycle track at Madison Square Garden, for the fatal accident to Urban MacDonald had a very depressing effect on those who had competed with him. All day long the chief topic of conversation was in regard to the formation of a fund for the benefit of MacDonald's wife and child, and in the evening, when most of the riders had been retreshed by a good day's sleep, a meeting was held to arrange the details.

It was decided to purchase a simple monument to cost not more than $100 and to give the rest of the money that may be subscribed to be used for the benefit of MacDonald's child. Among the riders who were present $177 in cash was collected, and promises were made that a good sized fund would be gathered together. Although this meeting was mainly of the Americans, the foreigners sent word that they would also co-operate.

Two to Meet in Match Lasting Three Nights for 1,200 Points.

NEW YORK, December 16 .- Professional billiards promises to be unusually active during the month of January, Sutton, Schaefer and Hoppe dress up like Kris Kringic. I know a lot of kids out near where I live that are afraid they are going to get temons this year, and I might scrape upenough to buy them a few oranges or walnuts to put in their Christmas stocking. I guess there are a lot of people that don't know what to give at Christmas. They wait until the last moment, and that makes holiday shopping a great tax on everybody. I think a nice thing to give is a hat or merchandise order; then the lucky man or boy or whoever it is can come in the day after Christmas and pick out their size or color or whatever it happens to be without the trouble of exchanging goods. We sell these orders for any amount, and you can send them out of town in a letter to your friends in the country. This will please some of the lads highly, as it will give them a chance to come up to town and have a good time.

President Murphy Declares That Trades Have Strengthened the Giants.

CHICAGO, December 16.—Back from the National League meeting held last week in New York, President Murphy, of the Cubs, said that his world's champions would have to hump them-selves to win another pennant next KANSAS CHAMPION season.

"The way the National League teams are strengthening by swapping players indicates we will have a race in 1908," said the boss of the West Side team.

"The New York team made quite a trade with Boston, and the acquistion of Tenney, a scrappy first baseman, and Bridwell, a young shortstop, ought to make the Giants a factor in the pennant chase once more. I don't know whether McGraw intends to play second or not, but if he does they will have some infield, with Tenney, Devlin and Bridwell as the other three.

"The Chicago Club was given several chances to make trades for other players, but there was nobody we felt in need of and all offers were turned down. The Brooklyn and Cincinnati Clubs were anxious to get Artle Hofrman, and Pat Moran was another player in demand. Del Howard also was fancied by several managers, but Chance thinks too well of those fellows to links of letting them go."

Just Before Sailing This Battleship's Team Defeats Vermont's Eleven.

mont's Eleven.

FORTRESS MONROE, VA., December 16.—Valiantly battling in mud ankle deep and cheered on by hundreds of women on the side lines, the football teams of the battleships Kansas and Vermont decided the championship of the fleet Saturday afternoon. The Vermontors came ashore in force, with a gont mascot bearing the ship's banner on his flanks and a beautiful green how on his tall. With the goat ahead, followed by a band, the men marched proudly to the field, only to lose their record as winners without a break.

The Kansans had the Marine Band, which Captain Hastings stopped in front of the hotel to serenade their reinds. They carried pennants with a dark blue ground and great sunflowers. The game was fiercely contested from start to finish, and the men rolled about in the deep pools until the close, when the score stood: The Kansas, 47 the Vermont, 2. The Kansas then produced large flags, with black roosters crowing on a white ground, and the inscription: "Kansas, Champions, 1907-8." The Kansas crowd danced in approaching the Chamberlin, where the band stopped. Rear Admiral Evans walked out to the curb to say a word of congratulation amid loud cheers.
